

BCSDN Newsletter Solidarity in Times of Corona Crisis

Dear colleagues and fellow CSOs,

In the wake of the global COVID-19 pandemic, the BCSDN Executive Office continues to undertake preventive mechanisms against the COVID-19 outbreak to protect its employees and our surroundings.

During this period, we invite you to embrace the success stories of joint national and regional actions. At this moment, we hope to continue our work based on empathy, regional partnership and solidarity, by putting forward new proposals and solutions to problems that and an opportunity to remind our communities that when we challenged as a region, in a situation with global implications, we stand united and together. Through permanent and strong communication, based on learning and sharing expertise on the daily work and ongoing activities and projects we can tackle the upcoming challenges, adding to our mutual credibility and performance. In a reality where digital technology enables sustainable strong and networking far beyond travel, we can make our work to become more visible develop arguments on how we can handle the period of crisis. Undoubtedly, this new situation will affect the civil society sector as such, and our organizations will be faced with the need to adapt to new ways of working, changing plans, goals, deliverables and possibly finances.

For this purpose, we invite you to share with us the role civil society, and specifically your organization, is taking as a response to the ongoing crisis to serve our constituencies, so that we can all support one another by promoting that work, but most of all so that we can learn from each other and support our efforts if needed.

This is also a moment in which we can testify about our transparent and accountable work in front of our stakeholders, donors, and beneficiaries, While our actions and interdependence during this crisis only build a foundation of trust between our organizations and the communities we serve, it is also a crucial moment to reflect on the role that our donors have in the process. Being directly concerned in this situation, donors should direct their attention. support, understanding and flexibility towards civil society organizations. Moreover, we call donors to safeguard democracy in this unprecedented times, taking into account the fragility of the situation. Together, we need to establish a strong relationship and coordinate the expectations, plans, and actions for the upcoming period.

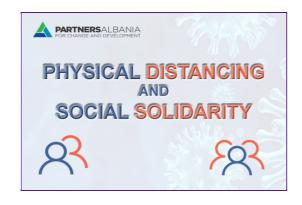

Together, let's make sure we all come out of this crisis stronger and more resilient.
